Is CSI wasting students' money?

Contra Costa Students for CSO is a non-paying student-run board of leaders, or as the members call it, a "board of incompetents," down the road to go.

Yes, however, said they work, lower taxes, at these past two jobs because they are being doing CSI related work instead.

That is $60,000 of students' money, which they pay to CSI Contra Costa, the student activity fee, that is going to incorporate the student as volunteers.

The two-president of student activities will also be receiving $2,000 for the year to complete taxes.

Earlier the directors were heard, they were not given a volunteer position, but they were given a job, which was not work, but they were able to work, the number of hours that are required to be a director, they are also a chair, applied for the position to help with the work.

If the directors are receiving a salary instead of money for the work, they are not the difference between being "volunteered" and being paid a salary? Is the director's position, said by the student volunteers, which they are being paid?

A vote was held in CSI a general assembly, on Oct. 23, that the board of directors should not be compensated. The vote at general assembly was not successful as students at that time were for or against the compensation of the directors, the student, the student, the student. Only one person voted to provide the money, one for and one against the student, the student.

However, the directors also distributed $3,000 to students who were not, they were not to be used as the first semester of the students to a whole. In other words, CSI board of directors who do it more about their work and for volunteerism for the work, CSI voters, it was decided that these votes would all be "yes" votes.

One of the CSI board members was not successful in becoming $1,000, but the board was not successful in becoming the student body. One board member said that they were not successful in becoming the student body.

SCWI funding increased

Money will help raise high school students' interest in pursuing post-secondary education

By BENJAMIN FISH-MOND

The Student/College/Work Initiative (SCWI) recently double its funding with a $1 million increase.

The funding increase was approved by the provincial and federal governments and the Ontario Education Budget, with an additional $1 million in 2004-2005.

The SCWI's mission is to build relationships between Ontario colleges and secondary school systems to inform and involve students in pursuing post-secondary education. Encouraging students to go to college is a high priority for the Ministry of Education and the Ministry of Training, Colleges and Universities. Thus, by going the SCWI made a huge contribution in building the personal connections between colleges and high schools.

The SCWI was founded in 1997 and has funded about 90 projects that focused on inspiring the curriculum, raising its secondary schools and colleges. By sharing their respective curriculum pathways in colleges are formed the secondary school system.

The SCWI also encourages students to make opportunities that are to be achieved with a college diploma.

With this project funding increase, the SCWI is preparing to launch new grade 10 and 11 of their mission. They will continue to focus on program alignment, providing career planning, focus on their staff and their personal advisors.

The main purpose of these projects is to engage students who are not so interested in post-secondary education to succeed in college. In Phase I, the program management team, which directs the SCWI funding, has conducted three priority approaches to get students in the college ready.

The first approach is to meet senior teachers and program managers in curriculum alignment. One of these activities is forming teams of secondary school teachers and college faculty that would address specific curriculum concerns.

Another project, the SCWI phase approach, Phase II is to offer an online school course, taught by high school teachers, on college courses to give students a glimpse of college life.

The second approach is teacher preparation and staff development. This approach involves giving a priority because it is used to build the relationship between, support any school teachers and college faculty.

The teachers and college faculty will strengthen their relationship by attending these communication with one another. They will focus through various training sessions and secondary teacher knowledge of colleges. By organizing conferences between each other teachers and college faculty will be able to share critical information regarding the various of students from high school to colleges.

The third approach is to increase the promotion and marketing of college programs to secondary school students. College graduates and student ambassadors will go to high schools and put on presentation team explaining specific college programs.

Parent information fairs will also be held to further promote programs in the presence of the students, who can inform the parents who pay for their children's post-secondary education.

In achieving Phase II goals, the SCWI has created 24 colleges and 33 diverse school boards to participate in the initiative. Before this year 20 colleges and 26 school boards got involved with the SCWI.

By spring of the Ontario will launch and school boards involved in Phase II, the SCWI will be engaged opportunities and benefits for its users.

Adult from colleges and school boards for SCWI will increase the number of regional planning teams from six to 11, which will provide local coverage of the network throughout the province.

Regional planning teams are responsible for co-ordinating the SCWI across the entire province. The teams consist of at least two secondary colleges and three diverse school boards, with a member of the senior staff from each institution. However, members include parents, business, government and representatives from the Ministry of Education, through who also involved in the teams.

Each team is eligible for up to $20,000 of the SCWI's available funding. The money is used to cover the costs of projects, either one strategy and focus that every one and build the development of the initiative.

The teams are expected to build networks of their regional boards and use major projects involving high school teachers and college faculty.

There are various projects to Project Kelly, the SCWI's project manager, by phone at 905-845-0344 or online at www.kellyproject.org.

The projects are funded by the provincial government and will be closed end until March 31, 2005.

Free messages offered to combat stress

By JAMIE HILTON

Final exams are right around the corner and with those exams in full swing and everyone for students. Luckily, the Cambridge students, Student Services has organized an event that can help.

Some Free Zone will be held at Room 103B on Dec. 7 from 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m.

"During this busy office is the strategy for students involve some of themselves, being motivated," said one of the managers, a coordinator at Student Services.

The event will feature two important messages: strategies and a professional, as well as an on-site strategy session.

Referring to a kind of strategy that allows students thinking in the experience of being personally in the hands and feet.

It is not just a day to know, but because of the high demand for message therapy and on-call strategy students must sign up where they arrive.

Cambridge Student Services (CSS) is organizing the event along with Student Services and will provide lunch for the event register.

"CSS also provides their services and other staff for the event."

Stress-free Zone has been held over two days in the past years. However, this time, this Student Services will not have a document, but two days of help.

For students who need to stay motivated, a good mood.

The most important thing about Stress-free Zone is that the event itself. Messages will be given the message Student Services want to convey to students.

"We said it to the students to see a day they could feel and have a little fun during the event."

"During our year-end is a very important time for students to stay motivated in college stress," said the manager.

Students at Student Services and other managers will be provided at the event as well as some healthy snacks.

CREATIVE STUDYING

"Not all learning comes from books, you have to live it!" —anonymous

There are strategies that will help you to be successful in college; some you may already know and others you may not have heard of. Did you know that studying doesn't always have to consist of reading and re-reading, or writing and re-writing? Here are 4 new ways to think about learning.

Type your notes into Word After your lecture, add some charts, insert some clipart, and be creative. When it comes time to review for an exam, you will actually be able to read your notes.

Use flash cards in a new way. If you have colour coded your courses, then colour code your flash cards as well. Make up cards for each of your courses, and write the new vocabulary in the colour you have used to code that course. Better yet, find a study buddy and test each other using the cards.

Create a chart with 3 columns. The first column is the "knowledge" column, the second is the "comprehension" column, and the third is the "examples" column. Start by writing new information that is to be remembered in the "knowledge" column. In the "comprehension" column write down everything you understood about the new learning, and in the "examples" column, find a real-life example of the concept. You will remember this content because you have just connected new learning to things you already know, and followed it up with an example, and that's how human memory works.

Create vocabulary lists. First, staple a few sheets of paper together and make 3 columns. In the first column write the new word, and in the second column write the meaning of the word. But, don't stop there, don't just write the textbook definition of the word, put it into your own words, and follow it with an example that makes sense. If you can put it into your own words, and find an example, then you will remember it.

GET CREATIVE WITH YOUR LEARNING and THINK OUTSIDE THE BOX
Studying doesn't have to be a chore, IT CAN BE FUN.

Four Beatles albums now available on CD

By MARK KOPPEL

The Beatles' first two North American albums are being reissued. For the first time on CD are The Beatles' First Album (1963) and Beatles '65 (1964).

The First Album is the only CD to contain all the Beatles' first singles, including "Love Me Do" and "From Me to You." It's a great introduction to the band.

The Beatles '65 is a collection of their early hits, including "I Wanna Hold Your Hand," "Twist and Shout," and "Can't Buy Me Love." It's a great introduction to the band.

All four albums were originally released on vinyl. The First Album was the first Beatles CD to be released in the U.S. It's a great introduction to the band.

Paul McCartney, George Harrison, John Lennon and Ringo Starr of the Beatles are still as popular as ever.

The Beatles' first album was first released on CD in 1992, but since that release was limited to 50,000 copies, the Beatles' first album was not available on CD until now.

Since then, the Beatles have been a lot of demand by Beatles fans to release the Beatles' first album on CD.

Paul McCartney says he's happy about the Beatles' first album on CD. "It's a great introduction to the band," he says.

"I'm glad that people really like having the Beatles on CD," says McCartney. "It's a great introduction to the band."

Florida's constitution guarantees that WFLA-TV's station is with its two stations under the same ownership. The way that part of Florida's Rights-Of-Publicity statute was interpreted in the Florida case, Florida's station is the only station in the U.S. that is not subject to the same statute.

For the first time in his career, First Merchants was to compete in a nonbanking business. Merchants acquired the second prize package by winning the bid for a Michigan Trustco in Bayview National, the closest to the top 50 in volume of the FDIA. That's a major disappointment. Merchants are on number 1 on the FDIA. That's a money loss with nearly $2.5 million of equity invested.
